By his Honour's Command,
GEORGE MURRAY, pro Sec.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

General Poſt-Office, Charles-Town, March 21, 1771.

ON Friday the 15th Inſtant, between the Hours of Five and Six o'Clock in the Morning, the POST-BOY, carrying the Northern Mail, from this Office, was attacked and robbed about five Miles beyond George-Town, by two Men, who took from the ſaid Boy, a Bag, ticketed, Charles-Town; containing the Letters for Brunſwick, Wilmington, Newbern, Virginia, New-York, Philadelphia, and Boſton.

FELLOWSHIP SOCIETY.

THE Members of the ſaid Society, are deſired to meet at the Houſe of Mrs. CATHERINE POINSETT, in Charles-Town, on WEDNESDAY the 10th Inſtant, at Nine o'Clock in the Forenoon, from thence to proceed to St. Michael's Church, to hear the firſt ANNIVERSARY CHARITY SERMON, which is to be preached by the Rev. " Look round our World: Behold the Chain of Love
" Combining all below, and all above.
" See plaſtic Nature working to this End,
" The ſingle Atoms each to other tend,
" Attract, Attracted to, the next in Place,
" Form'd and impell'd, its Neighbour to embrace.
" See Matter next, with various Life endu'd,
" Preſs to one Center ſtill, the general Good." POPE.

THE diſtreſsful Situation, to which the Poor and Neceſſitous are liable and ſubject, in ſtrange and diſtant Countries, are Circumſtances few can be ignorant of; and how greatly their Diſtreſſes muſt be heightened, by Diſorder of Body, Diſtraction of Mind, or by any ſudden Diſaſter or Sickneſs, is extremely obvious to all.---The Loſs of Time to the forelorn Sufferer, is no inconſiderable Part of his Calamity, when Health is reſtored: And if we reflect, that a fellow Creature and fellow Chriſtian may looſe his Life for want of preſent Aſſiſtance, his Caſe ſtill becomes more affecting: Moreover, the Inconvenience that attends the Reception of an afflicted Stranger, often prevents the friendly Aid of the charitable and well-diſpoſed; and the Confuſion and Terror into which Families may be thrown by a diſeaſed Viſitor, are no leſs ſerious than alarming.

" To afford inſtant Relief, and to preſerve deſtitute Individuals from the devouring Jaws of Death; at leaſt to relieve them under the diſaſtrous Accidents that may befall them, is one Part of the Deſign of the INCORPORATED FELLOWSHIP SOCIETY: A Society which has met with the Sanction of the Legiſlature of this Province, and alſo approved of by his Majeſty in Council.

" On peruſal of the Rules of the ſaid Society, the Reader will find, that their charitable Doors will be always open to the Unfortunate, of all Denominations and Countries; and ſurely Charity can never look fairer, or ſhine with greater Luſtre, than when ſhe is employed in healing the maimed, diſeaſed, and infirm; thoſe Acts of Mercy which the Saviour of the World did not diſdain to evince in Perſon.

" This ſhort Sketch, Mr. Printer, of the ſalutary Deſign and Uſefulneſs of that Undertaking, (as yet in its Infancy) you are deſired to lay before the Public; and as it is formed on a Plan, comprehended on Acts of beneficial Circumſtances, as well to the Community, as to thoſe unhappy Objects that may daily preſent themſelves, I make no Doubt it will meet with the Encouragement of the worthy Inhabitants of this Province, always ready to purſue every Method that may tend to leſſen Miſery.

A CITIZEN OF THE WORLD."

DAVID OLIPHANT.

The ſubſcriber intending to remove the greateſt part of his Intereſt to the Northward of this province, will diſpoſe of, by private contract,

HIS pleaſant PLANTATION on Aſhley-river, lately purchaſed of Dr. Briſbane, containing five hundred and thirty acres of high land, and three hundred and fifty of hard feeding marſh, being about fourteen miles from Charles-Town. Was there no other advantage to recommend this place than its pleaſant healthy ſituation, (being very high, and having the command of fourteen or fifteen gentlemen's ſeats on each ſide of the river) it would be ſufficient to thoſe who wiſhed for a retreat that can be rendered as agreeable as any in the province, but there are many improvements capable of being made really advantageous, at no great labour and expence. It abounds with pine either for ſawing or rail-timber; likewiſe about one hundred and thirty thouſand bricks, ready for the kiln; and ſhould the purchaſer chuſe, he may have the frame of propoſed additions to the preſent brick building, with boards, &c. for compleating the ſame, which, when done, makes a tolerable houſe of five rooms under one roof. Alſo,

Another TRACT of LAND on the Saltcatchers, Prince-William's pariſh, lately purchaſed of John Mackenzie, Eſq; containing by a late re-ſurvey, nine hundred and fifty acres, the full half of which is rich level tupelo and cypreſs ſwamp, eſteemed, by competant judges, to be inferior to none in that pariſh; far from being hazardous, as a three foot bank ſecures the ſame from the greateſt innundation. Near this tract is another, containing three hundred and fifty acres, which the purchaſer of the firſt may likewiſe find to be very benecial, as it is very well timbered with the beſt of pine.

The purchaſer of either tracts may have credit to the firſt of January, 1772, paying intereſt.---Should they remain unſold by the 10th of April, they will then be adverтiſed for public ſale.

STEPHEN DRAYTON.

THE Front STORE and CELLAR of the Houſe I now live in, at preſent in the Poſſeſſion of Mr. Hugh Swinton. Apply to CHARLES CROUCH.

KINGSTON, (in Jamaica) FEBRUARY 16.

Extract of a letter from Captain Dalton, dated Marblehead, December 20, 1770.

ON the 16th of October, being then in lat. 38, 30, and about 200 leagues to the eaſtward of Cape Race, in Newfoundland, about two o'clock in the morning, we found the ſhip made more water than uſual, and that the people had a long ſpell to pump her out; ſoon after we pumped her dry, we ſounded the pump again, and to our ſurprize, found ten inches water in her; we immediately ſet both pumps to work, but ſoon found the water increaſed on us; we then went down into all parts of the ſhip that we could get into, to diſcover the leak, but to no purpoſe; we could neither hear nor ſee any place where we had reaſon to ſuſpect the ſhip made water. We ſtill kept both pumps conſtantly at work; but the water gained ſo faſt on us, that by nine o'clock, (which I think was about ſix hours from the time of our firſt ſpringing the leak) we had nine feet water in the hold, and conſequently the greateſt part of the ſugars pumped up, ſo that we began to be in fear the ſhip would overſet; and as the wind blew then very ſtrong at S. E. and a great ſea, we had no more ſail ſet than our courſes before we ſprung the leak, but now could not bear any ſail at all, and began to have but little hopes of ſaving our lives, as we had no long-boat; but being willing to ſtrive for life as long as we could, we put ſome proviſions and water into our two ſmall boats, one of them only 15, the other 16 feet long. Although we did not think it poſſible, from the great ſea that then run, that we ſhould ever get a cable's length from the ſhip, before we ſhould all periſh. About half after nine we hoiſted boats out, and all of us got into them, and left the ſhip; in a ſhort time afterwards we ſaw her overſet and diſappear. Every ſea that came near us, threw ſome water into the boat, which kept us conſtantly bailing; and as we expected in both boats, every minute to ſink, we threw all our proviſions, clothes, &c. overboard, in order to lighten them, not imagining it was poſſible for the boats to live long enough in ſuch a ſea for us to have any occaſion for them; more eſpecially as we were out of the tract of ſhips at that ſeaſon of the year, and near 250 leagues from land. However, we found our boats much lighter, and did not ſhip quite ſo much water, and the two boats kept company till morning, when the wind began to blow harder, and imagined that if either of the boats ſhould fill, which we expected every minute, and could not aſſiſt each other, it might diſhearten the reſt; therefore agreed that it was better to part company; and as Mr. Grigg had a ſail in his boat, and the wind at S. E. he had ſome hopes of reaching the banks of Newfoundland, if the wind ſhould continue, and Providence ſpare him ſo long; he, with ſix men more in his boat, took their leave of us, ſet their ſail and went ahead, but have never been able to learn what has become of them, and have great reaſon to fear, that they periſhed in a hard gale of wind which came on the night following. As to our own miraculous preſervation, (13 in number) in that gale, or four days of bad weather, I am not able to account for, eſpecially as it appeared almoſt impoſſible, which puts it out of my power to deſcribe it; during five days, we expected every ſea we ſaw follow us, would be our laſt; this took away all thoughts of ſuſtenance. On the fourth day, it being ſomewhat more moderate than before, and the men being rendered incapable to row any longer, being in many places chafed half an inch deep, we ſewed three pieces of oſnabrugs, which we had ſaved for that purpoſe, together, and hoiſted it on an oar; this ſail eaſed us very much, as the wind ſtill continued from S. E. to S. which obliged us to keep before the wind; this gave us ſome hopes of reaching the banks of Newfoundland. When we lightened the boat, we ſaved a ſmall keg of water, and found a piece of raw pork in the bottom of the boat, but none of us ſeemed inclined to taſte it; the water was the only refreſhment we had, but was now near expended. On the fifth night your negro boy, and Capt. Bellamy's negro man, in the dark, got the raw piece of pork, and eat at leaſt half a pound each, which made them ſo thirſty, and not above two quarts of water left, that they drank the ſalt water that lay in the bottom of the boat, which I did not know till after their death. They ſoon became delirious after drinking the ſalt water, and in about five or ſix hours the boy died, and in two hours after, the negro man died alſo. This night moſt of us were delirious, more or leſs at times. The weather being moderate, and at laſt quite calm, it rained hard, and after drinking plentifully, we filled our keg. This hurt us very much, particularly three men who were quite ſpent, and all of us at the brink of death when we were taken up. Being ſeven days and ſeven nights in the boat, and about 200 leagues from the ſhip, we had the good fortune to come athwaght a Marblehead fiſhing ſchooner, to an anchor on the grand bank of Newfoundland; picture to yourſelf our joy on ſo happy a ſight; but being quite tired out, we had not ſtrength to get on board without their aſſiſtance, which they ſpeedily afforded us; after we had got on board, they made us ſome fiſh-ſoup, and gave us tea, chocolate, and other nouriſhment; the three men above-mentioned recruited faſt, but loſs of appetite, and a loathing to victuals, ſoon took place of that craving which we had on board the boat. Some time afterwards we fell in with ſeveral ſchooners, and put one man on board each, the veſſel we were on board of, not having room to accommodate us all. The ſchooner which I was on board, being but juſt come to the banks where they generally fiſh, we were to the 20th of November before we could compleat our cargo. On our paſſage to Marblehead we had the misfortune to run our ſchooner on a ledge of rocks, to the northward of Cape Sable, in a violent ſnow-ſtorm, which is an uninhabited coaſt, where no living creature can exiſt, nor ſcarce a tree can grow: Here we expected the ſame fate as before, had not Providence ſent another ſchooner to our aſſiſtance, which after remaining ten hours in this dangerous ſituation, helped to get us off, and we reached our deſtined port the 8th of December. As I had no proſpect of ſaving my life when I left the ſhip, I did not ſave any thing; not even clothes enough to prevent me from periſhing, through the inclemency of the weather, had not one of the people thrown my great coat in the boat, which, with an old red jacket, and a pair of ſlippers, being my working dreſs, were all I had. If any of the ſhip's papers were thrown into the boat, they muſt have been waſhed to pieces. My ſteward was more careful of my intereſt, for what little money there was on board, he gave to my officers and men to keep for me; but our unfortunate ſeparation put it out of my power to recover any more than ten dollars he had in his poſſeſſion; ſo that I may ſay I arrived here, not only almoſt naked, but in want of the neceſſaries of life; add to this, my diſorder of body, from the fatigue and hardſhips I underwent in the boat, and not a perſon here kind enough to advance me a ſhilling for a bill, or give me credit for any thing: In this deplorable ſituation, and a hard winter coming on, God only knows what would have befallen me, had not Mr. Timothy Penny, ſent me a letter from Boſton, informing me, that he would advance twenty guineas for a bill on Jamaica, drawn in his favour."

We hear from Black River, on the Muſquito ſhore, that the Lodge of Regularity, conſiſting of the principal inhabitants, have come to a reſolution, to build a ſpacious ſtrong houſe for the defence of the public, in caſe of an inſurrection from the negroes or indians, and for their greater ſecurity againſt a Spaniſh invaſion; for which purpoſe, they have appointed four truſtees, who have thought it their duty, to communicate this to their friends in Jamaica, as they are credibly informed, their ſuperintendant is gone there merely on purpoſe to acquire the merit of the undertaking to himſelf.

LONDON, JANUARY 5.

Extract of a letter from Paris, December 31.

"THE ſpirit of diſcontent, not to ſay revolt, which the people in general manifeſted, on the news that the Duke d'Aiguillon had ſucceeded M. de Choiſeuil, hath determined the former to excuſe himſelf to the King with reſpect to the nomination he intended to make in his favour; all his friends have partly pleaded the ſame excuſe, namely, the fear of an impending ſtorm. In ſhort, the Chancellor Maupoux, ſon of the keeper of the ſeals, both avowed enemies of the parliament of Paris, of which they have been ſucceſſively the chiefs, does the duty at preſent. All diſpatches are ſent to the reſpective departments, the head clerks of each of which go to open and read them to the King in perſon, aſſiſted by M. Maupoux; ſo that the King is ſtill his own Prime Miniſter. It would be happy for the people if he would continue ſo; he would then be enabled to know the ſtate of his kingdom, the wants of his people, the injuſtice of his miniſters; and would thereby confirm the attachment which his ſubjects have avowed to him, fully convinced of his tenderneſs to them. There is not yet any perſon nominated to fill the vacancies of the exiles."

The Prince of Conti, we are aſſured, has offered himſelf as a mediator between the French King and his Parliaments, which may probably produce a reconciliation in that kingdom.

The diſtreſſes of the poor are ſo great in Ireland, that the moſt dreadful conſequences are apprehended.

JANUARY 8. Monſ. de Choiſeuil has voluntarily reſigned the command of the Swiſs Guards, which was given to him for life.

On Wedneſday laſt came on the election of one of the Sixteen Peers of Scotland, in the room of the late Duke of Argyll, when the Earl of Stair was declared elected. The Peers preſent were in number 28, of whom 17 voted for the Earl of Broadalbane, 11 for the Earl of Stair.

For the Earl of Broadalbane, as follows----The Duke of Buccleugh, the Marquis of Tweedale. The Earls of Crawford, Buchan, Glencairn, Eglington, Moray, Home, Kelly, Haddington, Selkirk, Elgin, Abony, Broadalbane, Hyndford, Elphinſton, Elibank.

For the Earl of Stair, as follows---Earls of Leven, Dalhouſie, Northeſk, Dundonald, Stair, Roſeberry, Glaſgow. Lords Borthwick, Lindore, Colvil, Napier.

Signed liſts were ſent by the following Lords:

In favour of Earl of Broadalbane, by Earl of Hopton.

In favour of Earl of Stair, by Duke of Athol, Earls of Errol, Rothes, Caſſils, Abercorn, Loudoun, Lauderdale, Dumfries, March, Marchmont, Portmore, Delorain. Lords Forbes, Banff, Rollo, Newark.

In favour of Earl of Dyſart, by Duke of Gordon.

A proteſt was entered againſt a ſigned liſt, pretending to be ſent by Lord Forbes, alledging that it appeared plainly by the colour of the ink, that the name of the Earl of Stair had been inſerted that morning, 'tho Lord Forbes is in a remote part of the kingdom.

A proteſt was entered by the Duke of Buccleugh, to which the Marquis of Tweedale, 13 Earls, and 2 Barons adhered, againſt the liſt ſent by Lord Newark, alledging, that the Peerage of Newark, being limited to the heirs male of the body of the firſt Lord Newark, the perſon aſſuming the title is not the heir male of his body. A proteſt was entered againſt ſome other ſigned liſts, by the Earl of Selkirk, alledging a defect in form. It is believed a proteſt will be entered by all the Peers who ſupported Lord Broadalbane, againſt the miniſterial interpoſition which has been exerciſed upon this occaſion.

We are well aſſured, that this ſeaſon is the laſt in which Lord Mansfield will appear in public life.

And from the ſame quarter we have it, that the promotion of Mr. de Grey to the court of Common Pleas, is only a preliminary ſtep, to his being appointed to the chief ſeat, in conſequence of its being vacated by Lord Mansfield's retiring.

Whilſt the Engliſh are divided in their intereſt by parties, the French tore to pieces by intrigue and diſſimulation, the Spaniard eaten up with pride and arrogance, we find the induſtrious, wary Dutch, are in the higheſt ſpirits, at the enlargement of their trade and commerce throughout Europe; for, by the moſt authentic advices from thence, we hear they are hard at work in repairing and fitting out a greater number of ſhipping and buſſes for the Greenland and herring fiſhery the enſuing ſeaſon, than at any period ſince the eſtabliſhment of that golden branch of trade among the republic.

They write from Stockholm, that the French intereſt at that court viſibly declines daily; and that the Swedes are now making connections, which will in time aboliſh the French party entirely.

JANUARY 10. Sir Edward Hawke's reſignation is in conſequence of his honeſt principles ſtanding oppoſite to thoſe of the Miniſtry.

The Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, we hear, is to be created Marquis of Baynham, in Norfolk.

Some letters from Madrid mention, that the late change in the French Miniſtry, had thrown the court into much conſternation; but the people were very differently affected, from a perſuaſion that the above change would greatly tend to effect a general peace.

After the Earl of Stair was declared to be elected one of the Sixteen Peers of Scotland, on Wedneſday laſt, the Earl of Selkirk entered a proteſt (which was next day given in to the clerks in writing) to which moſt of the Noblemen, who voted for the Earl of Broadalbane, adhered; a copy of which here follows:

The Duke of Buccleugh ſeconded Lord Selkirk's proteſt.---"I think (ſaid his Grace) the interference of Miniſtry in the election of the Peers of Scotland, is not only unconſtitutional, but is an high affront to us. When I come here to give my voice in the election of one of our repreſentatives, I conſider myſelf as a judge. I am going to give my voice in the election of one of the ſupreme judges of Great-Britain, and I look upon ſolicitation in ſuch a caſe, to be the ſame as ſoliciting a judge. The circular letters are therefore a high affront to us, and for my own part I do declare, that if ever I receive another ſuch circular letter, if I can gueſs at its contents, I will put it into the fire, unopened."------This noble indignation warmed the hearts of every ſpirited hearer.

Lord Elibank has alſo gained much honour by his ſpirited behaviour on this occaſion.

EDINBURGH, January 2, 1771.

I DUNDAR, Earl of Selkirk, do proteſt againſt the Earl of Stair's being returned one of the Sixteen Peers of Scotland; becauſe the Miniſters of State have, contrary to the rights of the conſtitution, uſed undue influence relative to this election, by writing circular letters to the Scots Peers, in ſupport of the Earl of Stair; ſending theſe letters from the Secretary of State's office to Edinburgh, thence tranſmitted to all parts of Scotland, by expreſſes; thereby attempting to intimidate all who have dependence on the favours of adminiſtration, from giving their votes in that unbiaſſed manner which is eſſential to the exiſtence of liberty, and our free conſtitution. For although theſe letters may be couched in terms apparently inoffenſive, and evaſive of their real and eſſential meaning, yet there is no man of common ſenſe, but underſtands the intention; and therefore, I think it is the duty of thoſe, who wiſh for the preſervation of the independence of the Scotch Peers, to oppoſe all ſuch illegal and unconſtitutional attempts. And although the Peers, who have voted for the Earl of Stair, may have ſtrictly followed their own inclinations and opinions, upon this occaſion, againſt none of whom, nor againſt the Earl of Stair, is there any perſonal aſperſion whatever hereby intended; yet I do proteſt for myſelf, and for thoſe who ſhall adhere to this my proteſt, that the election in his favour, is rendered void and null, and therefore that the Earl of Broadalbane is duly elected our repreſentative, and ought to be returned accordingly.

(Signed) SELKIRK.

And the following Noblemen adhere. Buccleugh, Tweedale, Haddington, Buchan, Hyndford, Glencairn, Abayne, Elgin, and Kincardin, Mory, Eglington, Elphinſton, and Elibank.
